

'Drop Dead' Is Not an Option

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Bob Herbert

Source The New York Times

Date November 15, 2008

URL <http://www.nytimes.com/2008/11/15/opinion/15herbert.html>

Quote

“ If G.M., which is on life support, or Ford or Chrysler were to go bankrupt, the reverberations would kill the jobs of entire armies of American workers. It would undermine the standard of living of hundreds of thousands of families and shutter the entrances of untold numbers of small and intermediate businesses. Senator Shelby might want to do some homework before embarrassing himself again with the absurd comment that the crisis facing the Big Three is not a national problem.” ”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues for the position United States should bail out the automobile industry on the topic Economic crisis of 2008.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title='Drop_Dead'_Is_Not_an_Option&oldid=8305"

This page was last edited on November 16, 2008, at 16:32.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.