

Ahmadinejad isn't the issue

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Ray Takeyh

Source The Boston Globe

Date September 2, 2007

URL http://www.boston.com/news/globe/editorial_opinion/oped/articles/2007/09/02/ahmadinejad_isnt_the_issue/

Quote

“ Since 1989, the year the war with Iraq ended and revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini died, pragmatic considerations have gradually displaced ideology as the basis of Iran's international orientation. The reality remains that Iran's quest for nuclear arms and assertion of influence over Iraq makes strategic sense, especially in light of Iran's historic goal of regional preeminence.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues for the position United States should negotiate with Iran on the topic Iranian nuclear crisis.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Ahmadinejad_isn%27t_the_issue&oldid=6488"

This page was last edited on September 4, 2007, at 00:32.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.