

Back To Baghdad

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Ralph Peters

Source New York Post

Date July 28, 2006

URL <http://californiarepublic.org/archives/Columns/Peters/20060728PetersBack.html>

Quote

“ “We helped make this mess. Instead of relentlessly destroying terrorists and insurgents, we tried to wage war gently to please the media. We always let the bad guys off the ropes - and apologized when they showed the press their rope burns. We passed up repeated chances to kill Moqtada al-Sadr and break his Mahdi Army militia. We did what was easiest in the short term, not what was essential for the long term.” ”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues for the position United States should fight more ruthlessly on the topic Post-invasion Iraq.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Back_To_Baghdad&oldid=4391"

This page was last edited on January 5, 2007, at 19:39.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.