Bad posture on amnesty

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Michael Graham

Source Boston Herald Date July 7, 2010

URL http://www.bostonherald.com/news/opinion/op_ed/view/20100707bad_posture_on_amnesty_funny_how_feds_lean_on_ariz_not_ri/

Quote

"Even liberal Providence, where politicians long opposed any local enforcement efforts, changed its policy in 2008 after the infamous Marco Riz case. Riz was the illegal immigrant arrested by Providence cops twice while under a federal deportation order but released both times. He was then charged with carjacking a woman in Warwick and raping her in Providence. Rhode Island cops now routinely contact ICE when they suspect they've come across an illegal immigrant. Since 2006, the number of contacts they've made to ICE's Law Enforcement Support Center in Vermont has nearly doubled, the Globe reported. How is this significantly different than Arizona's proposed law?"

••

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position Lawsuit was justified on the topic United States of America v. Arizona.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Bad_posture_on_amnesty&oldid=12391"

This page was last edited on July 7, 2010, at 19:57.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.