

Israel can't bomb its way to peace

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Rosa Brooks

Source Los Angeles Times

Date January 1, 2009

URL <http://www.latimes.com/news/opinion/commentary/la-oe-brooks1-2009jan01,0,5374131.column>

Quote

“ There's just no clear route from bombardment to a sustainable peace. But the damage caused by this new conflagration won't be limited to the Israelis and Palestinians. Israel's military offensive already has sparked outrage and protests throughout the Arab world. The current crisis also may destabilize some of the more moderate Arab governments in the region -- in Egypt, for instance -- where leaders now face popular backlash if they don't repudiate Israel.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position Israel was right to attack Gaza on the topic Gaza War.

Retrieved from

"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Israel_can%27t_bomb_its_way_to_peace&oldid=9872"

This page was last edited on July 14, 2009, at 17:43.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.