It's not realistic to cut US-China economic ties. We should compete and win instead.

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Source USA Today

Date August 26, 2019

Https://www.usatoday.com/story/opinion/2019/08/26/america-must-compete-beat-china-global-economy-not-cut-ties-column/2114308001/

The first step in fighting this New War is to focus on trade policies that incentivize structural changes in China's economy and its treatment of foreign companies and investors. The examples of Chinese economic misbehavior are too vast to list here, but the American consumer shouldn't have to pay for Middle Kingdom misdeeds through tariffs. Instead of a tax on American consumers and businesses, we should have a policy of reciprocity.

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item takes a mixed stance on the position Trade war is good for the United States on the topic China-United States trade war.

Retrieved from

 $"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=It\%27s_not_realistic_to_cut_US-China_economic_ties._We_should_compete_and_win_instead.&oldid=30823"$

This page was last edited on October 23, 2019, at 14:47.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.