

Keep Away the Vote

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) The New York Times editorial board

Source The New York Times

Date September 21, 2006

URL <http://select.nytimes.com/search/restricted/article?res=F70B10FC3A550C728EDDA00894DE404482>

Quote

“ The actual reason for this bill is the political calculus that certain kinds of people -- the poor, minorities, disabled people and the elderly -- are less likely to have valid ID. They are less likely to have cars, and therefore to have drivers' licenses. There are ways for nondrivers to get special ID cards, but the bill's supporters know that many people will not go to the effort if they don't need them to drive.”

The following other items refer to this item: Picture IDs are perfectly sensible

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position Act should be passed on the topic Federal Election Integrity Act.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Keep_Away_the_Vote&oldid=3500"

This page was last edited on October 1, 2006, at 20:40.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.