Keep the internet fair and open to all

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Star Tribune editorial board

Source Star Tribune

Date December 12, 2017

URL http://www.startribune.com/keep-the-internet-fair-and-open-to-all/463754833/

Quote

Apple co-founder Steve Wozniak and other internet pioneers have asked that the FCC's board vote, scheduled for Thursday, be canceled. They have called Pai's plan "rushed and technically incorrect" and an "imminent threat to the internet we worked so hard to create." More than 200 businesses and civic organizations across Europe have registered their opposition, warning that ending net neutrality could undermine privacy, free speech and competition on the internet and have global repercussions because of U.S. dominance online.

"

The following other items refer to this item: Net neutrality editorial attempted to rewrite history

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position Net neutrality should be repealed on the topic Net neutrality in the United States.

Retrieved from

"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Keep the internet fair and open to all&oldid=29456"

This page was last edited on December 25, 2017, at 15:49.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.