

Natural justice needed - not 'human rights'

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) The Daily Telegraph editorial board

Source The Daily Telegraph

Date August 22, 2007

URL <http://www.telegraph.co.uk/opinion/main.jhtml?xml=/opinion/2007/08/22/dl2201.xml>

Quote

“ "The hope that the Act would somehow transform the national political consciousness into being consistently centred on a benign principle of inalienable "rights" has well and truly evaporated. What has emerged instead is a legalistic nightmare, in which one perverse consequence follows another. The Government now finds itself in the bizarre position of having to appeal against rulings forced upon it by its own legislation." ”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues for the position Act should be repealed on the topic Human Rights Act 1998.

Retrieved from

"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Natural_justice_needed_-_not_%27human_rights%27&oldid=6626"

This page was last edited on October 5, 2007, at 16:34.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.