Peru Is In, Now Where's Colombia?

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Investor's Business Daily editorial board

Source Investor's Business Daily

Date December 4, 2007

URL http://www.ibdeditorials.com/IBDArticles.aspx?id=281664179614983

Quote

"That is why the pending trade pact with Colombia is just as critical. A U.S. ally with the second-biggest population in South America and the third-biggest economy, it straddles two oceans and has implemented the same economic reforms in preparation for free trade as Peru. Its GDP is forecast to surge 7.8% in 2007. Also like Peru, it has endured a barbaric Marxist terror war and is on the road to ending it. To pass a pact for Peru while leaving out Colombia, President Bush noted Tuesday, would insult an ally."

"

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues for the position Agreement should be ratified on the topic Colombia-United States Free Trade Agreement.

Retrieved from

"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Peru_Is_In,_Now_Where%27s_Colombia%3F&oldid=6949"

This page was last edited on December 5, 2007, at 17:27.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.