

Provide assistance now

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Jennifer Granholm, Richard Blouse

Source USA Today

Date November 13, 2008

URL <http://blogs.usatoday.com/oped/2008/11/opposing-view-p.html>

Quote

“ If the federal government can provide a whopping $150 billion lifeline to a single insurance company — American International Group — then surely the federal government can save and create millions of American jobs by loaning and investing a fraction of that amount to an industry that will lead us to energy independence. Supporting the automotive industry through the current crisis and steering a clear transition to a low-carbon future will create millions of middle-class jobs that are vital to a strong economy while reinvigorating American technological superiority.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues for the position United States should bail out the automobile industry on the topic Economic crisis of 2008.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Provide_assistance_now&oldid=8304"

This page was last edited on November 13, 2008, at 14:28.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.