Russia will not benefit from its aggression

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s)	David Miliband
Source	The Times
Date	August 19, 2008
URL	http://www.timesonline.co.uk/tol/comment/columnists/guest_contributors/article4560698	3.ece
Quote	"I do not support Russia's expulsion from the G8: that would encourage Russian sense of victimhood, fuel Russian revanchism, and allow the Russians to position themselves as the champion of reform for those currently outside the G8. Instead we should use the G8 to work on issues where Russia can be a partner - whether on climate change or nuclear decommissioning. But we should also be prepared to act as a G7 when Russia acts in flagrant breach of international law and flouts our values."	,,

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position Russia should be removed from the G8 on the topic 2008 South Ossetia war.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Russia_will_not_benefit_from_its_aggression&oldid=8012"

This page was last edited on August 22, 2008, at 13:13.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.