

The Baker-Hamilton Report: A Prescription for Surrender

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Newt Gingrich

Source Human Events

Date December 11, 2006

URL <http://www.humanevents.com/winningthefuture.php?id=18426>

Quote

“ The release of the report confirms a Washington establishment desire to avoid conflict and confrontation by "doing a deal." In the 1930s, that model was called appeasement, not realism, and it led to a disaster. Today, we need a Churchill not a Chamberlain policy for the Middle East.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position Iraq Study Group's recommendations should be followed on the topic Post-invasion Iraq.

Retrieved from

"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=The_Baker-Hamilton_Report:_A_Prescription_for_Surrender&oldid=4118"

This page was last edited on December 12, 2006, at 14:43.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.