

The Libya Intervention

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) The Nation editorial board

Source The Nation

Date March 24, 2011

URL <http://www.thenation.com/article/159454/libya-intervention>

Quote

“ The likelihood of US or coalition forces killing civilians will only increase if Qaddafi’s troops solidify their hold on Tripoli and other cities; urban warfare is notoriously messy. The UN resolution forbids foreign occupation, so what will we do if Qaddafi hangs on and the conflict settles into a grinding civil war, with all its attendant chaos and bloodshed? Mission creep seems to be an inevitable feature of this kind of intervention. ”

The following other items refer to this item: Military action is costly, but not as much as apathy

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position United States should impose a no-fly zone on the topic 2011 Libyan uprising.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=The_Libya_Intervention&oldid=14241"

This page was last edited on March 29, 2011, at 14:22.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.