

The Smart Surge: Diplomacy

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Wesley Clark

Source The Washington Post

Date January 8, 2007

URL <http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2007/01/07/AR2007010700980.html>

Quote

“What the surge would do is put more American troops in harm's way, further undercut the morale of U.S. forces and risk further alienating elements of the Iraqi populace. American casualties would probably rise, at least temporarily, as more troops appeared on the streets -- as happened in the summer when a brigade from Alaska was extended and sent into Baghdad.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position United States should increase troop levels on the topic Post-invasion Iraq.

This item argues for the position United States should negotiate with Iran on the topic Post-invasion Iraq.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=The_Smart_Surge:_Diplomacy&oldid=4409"

This page was last edited on January 8, 2007, at 16:31.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.