The Wrong Diagnosis

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s)	Andrew Weil
Source	The Huffington Post
Date	August 9, 2009
URL	http://www.huffingtonpost.com/andrew-weil-md/the-wrong-diagnosis_b_254227.html
Quote	"Most cases of disease should be managed in other, more affordable ways. Functional, cost-effective health care must be based on a new kind of medicine that relies on the human organism's innate capacity for self-regulation and healing. It would use inexpensive, low-tech interventions for the management of the commonest forms of disease. It would be a system that puts the health back into health care. And it would also happen to be far less expensive than what we have now."

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position Act should be passed on the topic Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=The_Wrong_Diagnosis&oldid=11401"

This page was last edited on March 11, 2010, at 14:46.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.