

What Detroit's Doing Right

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Mike Cox

Source The Washington Post

Date January 12, 2009

URL <http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2009/01/11/AR2009011101892.html>

Quote

“Senators who think Detroit is still stuck in the dinosaur age may be shocked to learn that the Big Three are the leading purchasers of computer chips nationwide. In fact, GM, Ford and Chrysler are making cutting-edge vehicles featuring the latest in technology, engineering and fuel economy. Detroit's automakers spend $12 billion annually on research and development. No other industry can match that.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues for the position United States should bail out the automobile industry on the topic Economic crisis of 2008.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=What_Detroit%27s_Doing_Right&oldid=8795"

This page was last edited on January 12, 2009, at 17:32.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.