

Where pragmatism goes to die

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Rod Dreher

Source The Dallas Morning News

Date August 24, 2008

URL http://www.dallasnews.com/sharedcontent/dws/dn/opinion/columnists/rdreher/stories/DN-dreher_24edi.ART.State.Edition1.4d7b342.html

Quote

“ You don't have to find Vladimir Putin a sympathetic figure to appreciate what the world looks like from a Russian point of view. Imagine that America had lost the Cold War and gone through a decade of economic and social collapse. During this time, a victorious Soviet Union had brought several Central American nations into the Warsaw Pact and was trying to fast-track Mexico's entry. Would we feel threatened?”

”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position Georgia should be admitted into NATO on the topic 2008 South Ossetia war.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Where_pragmatism_goes_to_die&oldid=8019"

This page was last edited on August 26, 2008, at 14:08.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.