

Without net neutrality, the internet will be sold to the highest bidder

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Nathan White

Source The Independent

Date December 15, 2017

URL <http://www.independent.co.uk/voices/net-neutrality-vote-us-fcc-internet-rights-freedom-protection-a8112791.html>

Quote “ Without net neutrality, ISPs have an incentive to create a pay-to-play world, where content providers can pay to have their sites connect to users at higher speeds than their competitors. In that world, we would probably all still be using Myspace, because Mark Zuckerberg couldn't afford to pay the fees to speed up access to his dorm-room startup. ”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position Net neutrality should be repealed on the topic Net neutrality in the United States.

Retrieved from

"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Without_net_neutrality,_the_internet_will_be_sold_to_the_highest_bidder&oldid=29468"

This page was last edited on December 25, 2017, at 16:28.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.